For the man worthwhile is the man who can smile when he has a cold in his head.

There is a certain man whom we know who refused to be bothered about anything. Come good times, go good times, it meant nothing to him.

When he lost all of his savings of Podunk Oil stock during the crash, he merely shrugged his shoulders and remarked, "Easy come, easy go."

When his wife presented him with triplets, he merely smiled and said, "When they grow bigger I'll buy their clothes in big lots and make a saving on 'em."

When his youngest son fell off his bicycle and broke his leg, the father shrugged his shoulders and remarked, "Oh well, life is like that. It's lucky it wasn't his neck."

And then his wife and daughter got smashed up in an automobile accident. The car was a total wreck and the passengers escaped with cuts and bruises. When informed of the accident the father said, "Server, 'em right; she ought to learn how to drive a car."

He was laid off at his work, and he merely said, "Well, this will give me time to rest up."

Doctor bills swamped him, yet he kept his head above water, and smiled on. Nothing could worry him.

And then came the final blow—the last one. It was something that set out hero to cursing, raving, shouting. It was the last word.

His bank sent him an insulting letter, telling him he had overdrawn his account fifty-five cents.

Which all reminds us that at the bank the other day a certain person entered and remarked to the cashier, "They tell me I'm overdrawn my account four dollars."

"Right you are," the cashier replied after looking at his files.

"Fine," the customer remarked as he took out his check book, "I'll give you a check for four dollars."

Which was all a good idea, but it didn't work, a'tall.

That's the trouble with a lot of brilliant ideas one gets—they're perfect but they don't work out.

RESCUERS IN FIGHT WITH SNOW

YOSEMITE, Nov. 17.—UP—Forest rangers were traveling through deep snow tonight to rescue District Ranger Billy Merrill and his bride of a few weeks, the former Margaret Becker, of Roseman, Montana, who were marooned in a tiny cabin in the Tuolumne Meadows region of Yosemite National Park.

True to the tradition of the ranger service, Merrill remained at his post to assure the safety of late season tourists, until the Tioga road was blocked by snow.

His plucky bride told a United Press representative over a government phone that "blizzards can't keep me from my husband." Despite the three feet of snow around their cabin, and the raging storm around them, the couple were in good spirits as they settled themselves to await rescue.

Rangers Carl Danner and Jerry Merrin, with several horses, were dispatched by Superintendent G. G. Thompson to bring out the stranded ranger and his wife.

GROVER MILNES CLAMS BRIDE

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Milnes are expected to return to Richmond today or tomorrow from their honeymoon, following their wedding Sunday at Reno, Nev.

Milnes, business manager of the RECORD-HERALD, claimed as his bride Miss Enid Robinson, prominent Richmond girl, at a ceremony performed in Reno Sunday by Rev. A. J. Case, pastor of the Reno Methodist Episcopal church. They left immediately on their honeymoon.

The popular couple stole a march on their friends Saturday when Milnes called County Clerk E. H. Beemer, at Reno, and asked him if he would be on hand Sunday to issue a license. Beemer agreed. The couple arrived at the Nevada city Sunday where they were married.

Milnes is well and favorably known here. He has been connected with the RECORD-HERALD since his graduation from the Richmond Union High school.

Mrs. Milnes is a department manager at Albert's department store here. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Robinson, of Kelseyville.

Mrs. Hindley has been charged with assault with intent to do great bodily harm, but it appeared likely today that she would never face trial, as both Proctor and his young wife, Mrs. Lorraine Proctor, have stated their unwillingness to prosecute.

"I'll admit I got too fresh," Proctor was quoted as saying from his hospital bed at Cloverdale, "I won't appear against her."

Proctor, circulation manager of Sunset Magazine, was shot when Mrs. Hindley, whom he was driving from Eureka to San Francisco after she had answered his advertisement for a secretary, resisted his efforts to embrace her.

Mrs. Hindley will leave Santa Rosa tomorrow for Eureka where she lives with her mother.

Clinton Smith was named to head the group. R. B. Douglas was selected first vice-president; S. P. Skow, second vice-president; E. C. Forwick, secretary; and George Black, treasurer.

Further plans for this meeting will be made when the group meets Dec. 1. Meeting will be held every two weeks, at which times matters of importance to the welfare of the members will be thoroughly discussed.

Plans were made last night for the purchase and distribution of blue signs with the gold emblem of the organization. The signs will be given the organization members for display in their show windows. The gold insignia consists of the letters C. W. L. which stands for Community Welfare league.

BANK PANIC SWEEPS SOUTH

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 17.—UP—A wave of hysteria, mounting steadily with news of each additional closing, swept banking circles of Arkansas today.

By nightfall thirty-four banks affiliated with the A. B. Banks company of Little Rock had taken advantage of a state law which permits temporary closing for five days with suspension of payment of deposits.

Three small banks in addition had been ordered closed by the state.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson blamed the situation of panic due to the financial difficulties of Caldwell and company at Nashville, Tenn.

Officials of the banks group announced the closing had been caused by fear of hasty withdrawals.

The American Exchange Trust company of Little Rock was the first of the banks institutions to shut its doors. It is the largest bank in the state.

Within an hour came word from Pine Bluff, Ark., that the Merchants and Planters Bank and Trust company there, with seven smaller banking institutions in southeastern Arkansas, had failed to open their doors today.

Then messages were received from Helena, that the Merchants and Planters bank there had closed.

Almost coincident with this advice was the announcement from the Bank of McRea, Bank of Brantley and Bank of Foulke, small institutions not affiliated with the banks group, had been taken over by the department.

The state law permits the banks to remain closed five days. At the end of that time they either must reopen for business or place themselves in the hands of the State Banking department.

Banks, one of the wealthiest men in Arkansas, tonight ordered officials of the thirty-four affiliated banks to come to Little Rock for a conference.

No Heavy Runs

It was understood that he had some definite plan in mind which he believed could be put into effect before the end of the five-day suspension allowance.

Other banks in Little Rock did business as usual today, and none reported heavy runs by depositors.

Caldwell and company of Nashville was placed in the hands of a receiver last week. The firm was one of the largest investment concerns in the south.

NANCY CARROLL

AT THE FOX

In real life and in reel life, Nancy Carroll is an ex-chorine, in her newest picture, "Laughter," which closes tonight at the Fox-California Theater, Miss Carroll is seen as an ex-police girl. It was only about five years ago that Miss Carroll actually left Broadway musical shows for good and all, and started her phenomenal ascent to fame in Hollywood.

In 1923, after many performances in amateur shows, she at last got a job as a chorus girl in "The Passing Show of 1923." There were several other "stepping stones" to success on Broadway before she went to the west coast with a road show.

Picked by Paramount as just the type for the title role of "Abies Irish Rose" in the films, she played this part opposite Charles Rogers, and immediately gained the favor of film fans everywhere.

Since then it has been just one success after another for Nancy, who was raised to the rank of star in "Dangerous Paradise" with Richard Arlen. Subsequent pictures are "Sweetie," "The Devil's Holiday," "Honey," "Follow Thru" and now—"Laughter."

"Laughter" deals with the fortunes of a girl who, disappointed by the youth she had set her heart for, marries an unromantic but wealthy old man, only to find that thwarted love is its own retribution.

Frederic March, the young convert from legitimate drama who made such fine appearances in "Sarah and Son" and "Manslaughter" will play the leading featured role opposite Miss Carroll in "Laughter."

Training School

Probe In Oregon

Nears To End

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 15.—UP.—The inquiry into conditions at the state training school for boys at Woodburn was practically completed before the Child Welfare commission here with completion of testimony by W. H. Baillie, superintendent of the school.

Baillie said the "Oregon boot" was placed on Vernon Levy, inmate at the request of his father, A. Levy, and that the boy was a "difficult problem" and a trouble maker at the school.

"Vernon's father told me to do anything I could to tame his son," the superintendent declared, "and on two occasions recommended that he be hobbled with the Oregon boot."

Mrs. Lorene Baltimore of Eugene, former matron of the cottage in which the "boot" was located, testified that she was often awakened at night when "Pop" Darling, attendant, whipped or drilled the boys for disciplinary measures. She said conditions became so bad that she was almost a nervous wreck.

When she complained to Baillie about the smaller boys sleeping too close to the larger boys, Mrs. Baltimore said, he told her that "the little boys can teach the big ones more than the big ones can teach the little ones."

Mrs. Baltimore said that Baillie instructed her to give the boys in the brig a cupful of food, which he said was enough to keep them alive. Some boys got more food than others, she said, and when they came out of the brig, they were nearly starved.

"Pop" Darling played favorites, the former matron said, and she knew of instances where boys were forced to go to the hospital for treatment for their hands after they had been whipped.

The commission will visit the school next Tuesday to gather information which will be used in its recommendations to the state board of control.

HAROLD LLOYD

CHILDREN GUARDED

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 17.—UP.—The 14-year old niece of Mary Pickford was reported under guard by Beverly Hills police today as the result of a kidnapping threat.

The girl is accompanied by an officer each time she leaves Pickford, the estate of Mary Pickford and her husband, Douglas Fairbanks. The officer was assigned to the case Friday.

At the same time it was learned that Harold Lloyd, screen comedian, had asked police to recommend a watchman for his home and that the man has been on duty since last Wednesday. The move was the result of the kidnapping scare and to protect the Lloyd children.

The Pickford girl is the adopted daughter of Mary Pickford and is the daughter of Lottie Pickford, sister of Mary. Originally the girl's name was Mary, but was changed legally to Gwen to prevent confusion in her name and that of the actress.

Charlie Blair, chief of the Beverly Hills police department, said that the officer was assigned to the case "merely as a precaution against a possible abduction." This statement was in contradiction to information given out by an officer that there had been specific threats against the girl. Blair said that a watchman at Pickford had been discharged and that he had provided an officer to accompany the girl until another watchman could be employed.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—UP.—Prince Serge Midant went on to Los Angeles tonight after he had explained to Mary McCormick, Chicago opera star, the why and wherefore of his celebrated fist fight aboard a trans-Atlantic liner a few days ago.

"Darling, why did you have a fight?" asked Miss McCormick. "You knew it would get into all the papers."

"What else could I do?" asked the prince. "Here was this fellow swearing in front of a woman. There wasn't anything to do but hit him and get him out of the way, was there? I give you my word, darling, I didn't once think of the newspapers."

Interviewers asked the prince, when he alighted here from a New York train, concerning Pola Negri, his estranged wife.

"All is finished," he said. "She is a very beautiful woman."

"Darling, I didn't come between you and her, did I?" asked Miss McCormick.

"Certainly not," replied the prince. "She herself acknowledged that."

HOLLYWOOD IS

PAMPHLET

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 17.—UP.—This business of people throughout the land regarding Hollywood as a place with an on every corner and its residents a lawless crowd has gotten on the nerves of the Hollywood City club.

"How wicked is Hollywood?" The organization asked in a pamphlet issued and then went on to tell how little crime there is in the movie colony and how misunderstood the minor slips of the famous people who live here.

Whether the city likes it or not it has gained much favorable publicity as "a lawless, crime-ridden community," the pamphlet said. "This is perhaps not extraordinary when it is considered that this district is inhabited by some of the most famous personages in the world; persons whose every day movements constitute news of the first importance, and whose minor peccadilloes may be wrongly elevated."

Defends Home

Speak of a Hollywood divorce and the public thinks there is at least one in every home and perhaps with a lot of naughty entertainments, but this is no; the club defended.

As a matter of fact, the very fact that the movie studios are located in Hollywood makes outsiders assume that the divorce rate is high, but the conclusion is merely arrived at because of the publicity given divorces in which movie celebrities are involved, the statement said.

To support its contention that the divorce situation is not nearly as bad as it looks, the club quoted statistical estimates, which may be summarized as follows:

Divorces Low

The total number of individuals affiliated with the acting branch of pictures totals 9,000, or six-tenths of one per cent of the population of Los Angeles, which includes Hollywood. Of divorces filed with the county clerk only one-half of one percent involved movie people. Grounds for movie divorces more usually are based on incompatibility than morals. So, concluded the club, things aren't as bad as they seem.

The report stated that during August, September and October of this year only 3,670 persons were arrested in Hollywood for burglary, robbery, grand theft, petty theft, automobile theft, traffic accidents, murder and vice offenses whereas, based on population, it might have been 4,928 persons.

Many Churches

The fact that servants in wealthy Hollywood homes often are tempted to purloin articles of value left lying about, was pointed out.

Hollywood, standing fifth in population among the 14 police districts in Los Angeles, with 141,000 residents, is tenth in the number of vice arrests. It was said.

In point of ethnic culture, Hollywood has 41 churches, with 20,000 persons attending weekly.

GEORGE ARLISS

IN FILM AT

FOX

The secret of the remarkable success enjoyed by George Arliss for thirty years on the American stage and screen is undoubtedly due to the long period of training he received as a struggling young actor, touring the English provinces.

The Arliss genius developed slowly. The master artist, whose crowning achievement in the minds of many is his Vitaphone version of "Old English" for Warner Bros., the next attraction at the Fox-California Theater, spent many long and weary years learning the business of character acting.

After a moderate success in England and several successful seasons with a supporting cast in London, Arliss came to America with Mrs. Patrick Campbell to play four months. He remained, however, season after season until a wise producer recognized his great ability and starred him in his first play, Molnar's "Devil." As a consequence the English actor became the dean of American stage stars and later of the American screen.

"Old English" was the greatest stage success in which Arliss appeared. The Galsworthy drama has been faithfully and beautifully transferred to the screen with an impressive supporting cast under the able direction of Albert E. Green.

WRENCH PLAY OPENS WAY TO FAME

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—UP—Peter Dixon and his wife, Aline Beery, spent a couple of hours today opening their fan mail, which is delivered to them in bags and talking about the vicissitudes of life, especially the time when their future hinged on a monkey wrench.

The story of the Dixons' rise in the world is another Alger tale and a good one. Two years ago, when they arrived in New York, they didn't have a dime. Today their radio kit, "Raising Junior," broadcast daily over the NBC network, is one of the most popular features of the air.

Dixon is a former newspaperman. He worked on papers in Houston, Galveston, San Antonio, El Paso, Tucson, Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Louisville and other cities.

Came East
Two years ago he and his wife decided to take the big leap and come to New York. They drove east from Oklahoma, and finally, one night found themselves in Jersey City.

Difficulties presented themselves. Here they were, within rifle range, as they say in Oklahoma, of Manhattan. Yet they didn't have enough money to buy ferry tickets.

They sat in the car and considered their problem. Finally Dixon dug into his tool kit and brought forth a monkey wrench. He would try to sell it to someone for enough money to get across the Hudson.

Wins Money
He got out of the car and started to walk up the street, carrying the wrench in his hand. A policeman saw him, suspected that he was bent upon brainning someone with the wrench, and stopped him.

Our hero explained his predicament to the officer, who grinned and handed him a quarter. So, after all, Peter did not have to sell his monkey wrench down the river.

In New York he worked on a newspaper and then got a job as a press agent for the National Broadcasting company. The Dixons were never very prosperous. The birth of a son did not improve the economic horizon for them. But the birth of an idea did.

Writes Skit
Dixon wrote a "Raising Junior" skit. He and his wife rehearsed it. Then they went over to New Jersey, to the plant of a breakfast food factory. They got permission to put on their act for the executives of the company. The Dixons were signed up to broadcast the skit. They finished their second month today.

"The moral of the story," said Dixon, smiling at his attractive young wife, "is that the little things in life are the things that count. If you have a monkey wrench around the house, don't give it away or let the kids carry it off. It might come in handy someday."

'Love Slayer'
Victim Buried
TIMPSON, Tex., Nov. 17.—UP—Mrs. Edwina Prince, 16-year-old bride, slain "for love" by her husband was buried here yesterday while Earl Prince, 20, remained in the state prison at Huntsville where he was taken as a precautionary measure against mob violence.

The slaying occurred on a road near Ludlow Friday. The youthful couple had been estranged for several weeks. They met on the street there Friday night and went for an automobile ride with three girls.

They began quarreling, the girls said, and Prince shot his wife. As she slumped to the ground beside the car, he clasped her in his arms and kissed her, they told officers.

Then crying, "I am doing this for love," he arose and fired two more bullets into her prostrate form.

Montana State College Men In 'Social Strike'

BOZEMAN, Mont., Nov. 17.—UP—Students of Montana State College in general assembly today voted to continue on strike until their demands for a reform of college social regulations are met.

The vote was taken to determine the course of the strike, which began last Friday in protest of a new rule that all college women should be in their quarters by 11 o'clock every night including week-ends.

Governor John E. Erickson, to whom the associated students appealed last night for an investigation of the college social situation, answered with a brief message.

"Investigation should be made by the board of education, but a special meeting will not be called except upon a showing that a necessity therefore exists," the governor said.

At Hamilton hall the freshman women's dormitory-groups of girls gathered at windows and chanted the "Prisoner's Song," while in the street below, groups of students, intent on keeping the strike spirit active, rallied at bonfires.

The male population of the college, especially fraternity men and social groups, have led the demonstration against the faculty social committee, whose chairman, dean of Women Una E. Herrick, instituted the 11 p. m. rule.

A handbill circulated under the heading, "an appeal for freedom" declared co-eds had less freedom than "high school women" and declared that "convent regulation of women of college age seemed unreasonable."

"The male population at Montana State College outnumbers the female two men and a small boy to one," the dodger read, "figuring women's lamborees and other purely feminine gatherings, a man student has very little opportunity to join in social affairs."

FARM BUREAU BUYS MORE WHEAT

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—UP—The federal farm board, already a heavy investor in the grain market, bought 1,000,000 more bushels of wheat on the Chicago board of trade today in its effort to stabilize grain prices.

The transaction halted the downward slide of prices immediately, even caused wheat quotations to close one half to three and one eighth cents per bushel higher.

Uncle Sam, represented by the grain stabilization corporation, bought all grain offered for December delivery at about 73 cents per bushel, thereby taking up most of the surplus on the Chicago market.

Today's purchases brought the farm board's stores of wheat to about 70,000,000 bushels. Alexander Legge, chairman, announced that the board intended to make

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—UP—Whether, as many believe, alumni are disgusted at the amount of literary fireworks that followed California's and Stanford's defeats at the hands of U. S. C. tickets for the "big game" are being returned.

Though he would not ascribe any certain reason, "Jake" Irwin of the Stanford board of athletic control, admitted that "a good many" tickets have been returned, mostly from out-of-state alumni, and are now on sale at the University ticket office.

It is unprecedented for big game tickets to be available to the public at this time of year.

Some grain traders characterized the farm board's buying as the "most stupendous flyer in wheat in all history." Others held that the governmental purchases of grain were necessary to keep the market from demoralization.

In addition to keeping a lead in the house, McBryde said in a statement the dries not only maintained the overwhelming dry majority of the present Senate out in some respects strengthened their position.

THE WOMAN OF IT

How Women Can Help Unemployment

A WELL-KNOWN and exceedingly efficient woman, Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth of Montclair, N. J., represents her sex on the President's Emergency Committee for Unemployment and is working hard to enlist feminine co-operation in the committee's effort to aid the jobless. Dr. Gilbreth is not only a successful industrial engineer, but the equally successful mother of eleven children. Both roles undoubtedly have helped her to qualify as an expert in finding work!

Her first suggestion is especially addressed to the 23,000,000 practicing housewives in the United States, and will be as welcome to many of them as to the unemployed. What woman, proud of her home, isn't always eager to "fix it up," remodel, it nearer to her heart's desire? She has read with approval—she probably has read aloud to her husband—Dr. Gilbreth's first public statement:

"I am going to urge each woman to study her home or her job to find out in what way she can contribute to the work, and I want women to realize that their individual efforts will count as part of large community programs. For one thing, each individual housewife may study her budget, find out what she can afford to do in the matter of advancing work to be done in her home and then having it attended to immediately."

"Here, dear," women are saying in homes all over the United States, "you see there couldn't be a better time for doing all the things I've wanted to have done for so long. We'll have the floors in the hall and living room refinished, and the kitchen painted one of those new bright colors—blue, I think, because I like it."

"Then the upstairs ceilings need to be whitewashed and the paint in Junior's room is all fingermarks—I'm so tired of trying to clean it. We might as well have the guest-room repapered; you remember Aunt Sallie left the window open last summer during a thunder shower, and there are perfectly horrid stains on the paper underneath."

"There's a place down in the laundry where the wall needs plastering—the refrigerator leaked through the floor and the old plaster soaked and fell out. The back steps are really not safe; we ought to have new ones. I think some of the gutters and leaders need replacing. And I want a new brass water heater. I'd like colonial shutters, too, if we can afford it."

But at this point the lady's husband probably asks her if she expects to give jobs to ALL the unemployed, all by herself! Men don't get nearly as much fun as women out of new paint, paper, whitewash and other home renovations. It always seems to men like a lot of work for nothing, and, poor dears, they do so loathe the period of upheaval.

One clerical husband of our acquaintance, after a domestic siege from painters and paperhangers, remarked, plaintively, "In my father's house are many mansions—and I hope mine will be finished before I get there!"

However, neither he nor any other male protestant stands a chance, now that his wife's urge toward domestic renovation is backed by the conscientious conviction that she'll be doing her duty in making half a dozen jobs grow where none grew before. Seriously, it seems to us that the unemployment situation must be helped if women all over the country, who can afford it, have their homes repaired and redecorated.

ANOTHER way, of course, in which women can help unemployment is to give what money they can spare to funds raised for those without work and for their tragically suffering families. Here in the city the Salvation Army is collecting an emergency fund of $1,000,000, and all the women's clubs and organizations, through their officers, are being asked to join the Army's emergency aid committee of women. This committee hopes to raise half the desired million, and reports that New York women are most eager to help.

"I have never seen anything at all in my experience like the response to a meeting," declares Grover Whalen, chairman of the fund. "It has all the air of a feminine mobilization to repel an enemy invasion of our city in wartime."

HERE is still a third contribution which women can make to the problem of unemployment—a contribution which we believe many are making today. Every woman in the family where a husband or father is unemployed can contribute every ounce of courage and faith and cheerfulness which she possesses, in an effort to buck up her man.

Some of this courage of helplessness—not nearly as easy as giving a job or money, out of one's personal prosperity. To smile, to make light of deprivation, to hide the clutching fear of actual want, to tell the breadwinner, in effect, that anybody as remarkable as he must get a job soon

When a Guest at Dinner

PERHAPS you are to be a guest at the Thanksgiving dinner, so let me remind you that it is very bad manners to delay the dinner by your late arrival and, lest you forget, in homes where people are polite, table guests stand at their chairs until the hostess is ready to be seated.

Remember to unfold your napkin below the level of the table and leave one fold in it when laying it across your lap. At the end of the meal, while holding napkin at its center, place it at left of your plate with the open part toward edge of table. Always handle your napkin as unobtrusively as possible.

Do not begin to eat until the hostess gives the signal by starting to eat.

When you finish eating place your knife and fork (prongs turned upward) on your plate slightly to the right, the center with handles to the right.

Do not rest elbows on the table and keep your hands under the table when you are not eating and never lay back in your chair nor lean against the table, sit upright.

When leaving the table do not shove yourself from the table and do not push the chair under the table, leave it as it is when you arise.

Any slight doubt that cold weather has wrought changes in our menus and brought in a season of bigger and better breakfasts will be dispelled by a visit to a meat market. Sausages in links, sausages in compact half-pound packages, great mounds of sausage meat all disappear in the course of three or four minutes' waiting time. Only a few weeks ago, a man in a brown suit and a bow tie, a sausage of the bologna type were all that were in demand, now in some markets hardly an order comes in that does not include highly-seasoned pork sausage of farm style among its items.

KAREN HOLLIS

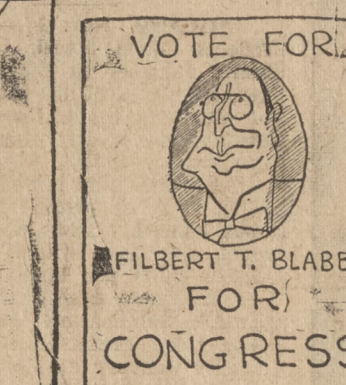

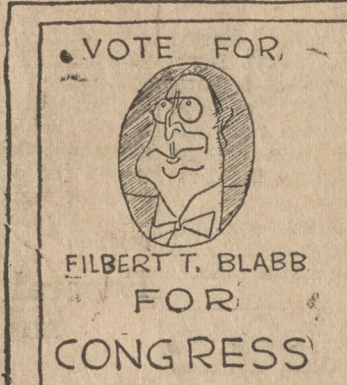

Some of this sausage in local markets is excessively salty, as you may have found. Several readers have complained about it, and I am among the unfortunates who got some. It is a wise precaution to cook one link or a small cake and taste it before cooking a large amount. If it is too salty, parboil the rest for one minute, prick the links with a fork, and drain it before broiling or frying. There are many delicious ways of serving sausage, and I presume all who have ever lived in country districts know well the savor of country sausages with fried apples. A slightly different dish that is popular in the South at hunt breakfasts may be new to you, however. I recommend that you follow merely the cooking and serving of this dish, not the customs that are associated with it. For in the South this is served at the end of the long and gay night rather than at the beginning of the morning.

GEORGIA SAUSAGE
1 pound pork sausage, either link or cake
3 sweet potatoes
3 large Jonathan apples
4 tablespoons brown sugar
½ cup hot water

Boil the sweet potatoes until tender, peel and cut into four slices long, wide, and thin. Lay the bottom of a shallow, greased casserole with the potatoes. Brown sausage links or cakes in a frying pan, place them over the potatoes and cover with thinly sliced, raw apples. Sprinkle brown sugar over the apples and add four tablespoons of the drippings from the sausages. Bake in a moderate oven for forty minutes, or until apples are very tender. Serve hot with cornbread sticks or spiced corn bread.

Evening Heads Romantically Jeweled

Hair arrangements by Martin of Vienna—Ornaments from Stern Brothers

Now they are banding these tangles at the back with a wreath of diamonds—brilliant they may be, it reaches from ear to ear and gives the clearest sparkle there, harmonizing with all the smart puffiness of the modern stiff evening gown that has been revived from Victorian days.

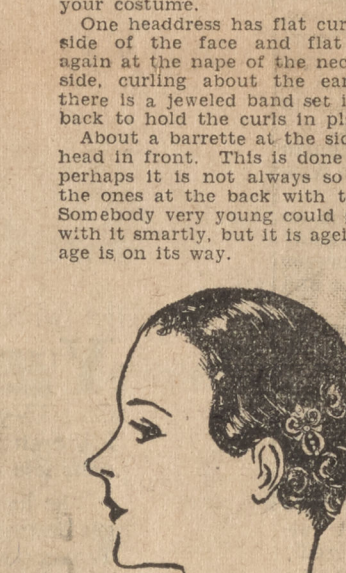

If you can visualize yourself this way, go and have some expert work it out for you so that you will be sure that the effect from the back is just as dainty and sweet as you know you can make it from the front.

RHINESTONE CLIP, BOTH ORNAMENTAL AND YOUTHFUL.

RHINESTONE BANDEAU THAT HOLDS THE CURLS AT THE BACK.

RHINESTONE ORNAMENT ON 'MALL SHELL COMB THAT HOLDS THE CURLS AT EITHER SIDE OF THE HEAD.

FLEXIBLE WREATH OF RHINESTONES, HELD AT EITHER SIDE BY RUBY-COLORED CLIPS.

YOU can't bob your hair close, fix it in the morning, and expect it to carry through the day and evening and night—no matter what the clothes—that way.

Things are different now. This new femininity has done away with all that. I am sorry to say, for comfort's sake—I am happy to say for picturesque and all that goes along with it.

The girl who makes a hit on the ballroom floor today is not the one with all her youthful boyishness to the fore, but rather the one who wears a dress that is a masterpiece of dressmaking and makes the most of it—certainly as far as her clothes are concerned.

She has flounces—she has curls. She has revived the era of the 90's—her own great grandmother's time. She has made of herself a picture to rival the sweetest one that has ever been painted.

Now for Her Hair

WHEN you dress up your figure all ready for a party, you dress up your hair at the same time.

And it's not a simple matter either. Your face and your head and your dress must be studied carefully—your type, too—before you strike the head-dress that will do the most for you and please you and for you to be willing to call it your own.

Girls like curls as much as they do all prettiness of dress, but curls that just fan out and go with their own swing are not the idea at all today.

We are having a renaissance of the 90's, but we are doing it in our own way and, if in the face of my own grandmother I do say it, we are doing it rather well.

The surest manner of accomplishing the perfect head-dress for evening is to go to some hairdresser who knows what he is about, who knows the style and how it is being managed. Between you and your hair, some arrangement which will be smart and right for you, for the shaping of your head and for your clothes.

You must take into account the jewels you will wear, for they are done smartly as a part of the evening coiffure, and you will be wanting something of the same as sure as fate, and as sure as you see your new evening frock making that picture which needs a really well done coiffure to go with it.

The hair fixing, if not always be the same any more than the dress is, but it will be soft and flat and becoming and decked with some jeweled band or other.

Jeweled Clips

ONE head dress is done with a jeweled clasp at the side back. The hair is swirled around to the back and held there, without wave this time, by a band of jewels to carry out the tone of your gown or its general assemblage of accessories.

A ruby clasp is one of the prettiest, as ruby jewelry is of the best this season. When you have the ruby band all studied and set in place, then you can add your own variety of ruby stones, but not a necklace—that

For Each Floor a Cleaner

ALL floors cannot be cleaned alike. Each finish requires its own treatment.

On an oiled floor water and soap should be used sparingly. If swept with a soft brush and dusted with an oiled cloth or mop, oiled floors will keep clean, but occasionally they should be wiped with a cloth wrung out of warm soap suds then polished with a cloth or mop moistened with kerosene or a good floor oil, making sure to rub it in well and to wipe off all surplus oil.

Varnished floors will retain their color and gloss better if no water is used on them. However, it is sometimes necessary and then a cloth wrung out of slightly soapy warm water should be used and the floor immediately wiped dry, then polished with oil. If regularly and carefully swept with a soft brush and rubbed with a cloth or mop slightly moistened with kerosene or floor oil a varnished floor will keep clean without water.

If a waxed floor is cleaned with a soft brush or a mop free from oil it will be clean. When it becomes dirty—due to excessive use of water—a cloth moistened with kerosene, benzine or gasoline will clean it more effectively than water will. Water will dull the wax, and destroy its color and its life.

Painted floors can be kept in good condition if swept with a soft brush and rubbed with a dry or oiled mop. Water should be used only when absolutely necessary, but must be used carefully. Strong soap or powder will ruin a painted floor and allowing water to remain on it will injure it. After wiping or mopping it with a wet cloth it should be rubbed with an oiled cloth or mop.

Because a floor is unfinished it does not follow that water and soap may be used freely. Too much water will darken the wood and in time may soften it. Strong soap and alkalis will have same result. Unfinished floors may be scrubbed or mopped with warm water and mild soap and, if necessary, may be scoured with powdered pumice or fine steel wool, then rinsed with clear water and should always be well dried.

Liquid Cleansers Are the Vogue

EVERYBODY is talking "liquid cleansers." As far as fashion goes, creams have become as commonplace as soap and water.

This department is for liquid cleansers because of their ability to get down into the hard-to-clean places in the skin—the nooks and crannies around the nose and chin, for instance, and clogged pores.

BUT, we do not believe that most liquid cleansers—if any—should be used to the complete exclusion of cream. And we know that all liquid cleansers are not alike, by which we mean all equally beneficial to all skins.

The thing that you will look for naturally in any liquid cleanser is the ability to cleanse. However, there is something else you must look for, especially if your skin has a tendency to dryness. Thorough cleansing must not be sought at the sacrifice of the skin's precious oils and moisture. Really excellent liquid cleansers take away but they give back. They take away stubborn dirt and they give back moisture, suppleness. And this, you know, is the skin's very youth.

In guiding you toward the right type of liquid cleanser we should say, in general, choose one that is of the liquid cream type or one with a slightly oily character. Some of the better type liquid cleansers actually contain cleansing oils, you know. Small chance of their drying out the skin.

You will find this newer type cleanser a genuine joy for daytime cleansing. What woman relishes giving herself a daytime clean-up with cream, particularly if she is an office worker or a shopping fan? For between-time cleansings away from home there is nothing that can quite take the place of the liquid cleanser.

Keep your cream for morning use or nighttime use, or both, according to the special need of your skin. Dry skins simply hunger for cream and should have it at least once a day. Oily skin, on the other hand, thrives beautifully on liquid cleansing twice daily, plus cream cleansing two or three times a week.

Oily, black-heady skins, however, present a slightly different problem. A good liquid cleanser as a steady diet can be of tremendous help to them; of course, but there must be another form of cleansing two or three times a week if the job is to be thorough. A good pore paste, almond meal or other special blackhead wash is essential to ridding the pores of deeply embedded dirt as blackheads.

FOOTBALL IN FOCUS

Now that moving pictures are used for determining who won the football game:

COACH—I want you fellows to go in and win today's game by a big margin. Remember what happened last Saturday. You beat your opponents 27 to 0 till the Pathe Weekly came out on Monday. Then we lost four illegal touchdowns and were thrown into a scoreless tie.

PLAYER—I still think they tied us by trick photography, coach.

COACH—Maybe they did. That's why you've got to play cagey today. McGoogle, when you start that wide end run of yours, don't forget the camera angles. Do you remember my instructions on that play?

McGOOGLE—Yes, coach. On the end run I start for the sidelines till I register a close-up, then turn sharply and streak for the goal.

COACH—What else?

McGOOGLE—Oh, yeah! I turn my head around and register happiness as I cross the goal line.

COACH—That's right. We don't want any movies taken just showing the numerals on your back. Register your face if you have to score running backwards. You guys have got to remember you ain't playing this game just for the 30,000 people in the stands. By Monday night this game will be shown in front of 45,000,000 movie fans.

QUARTER BACK—Coach, what do I do if our attack is stopped and we have to try for a field goal?

COACH—You should waste one down and get the ball in position over near the sound trucks. Then when you try the field goal, you're right in focus for the whole play. I remember we lost three points a month ago when McCuster made a perfect drop-kick while the camera man was changing reels. They ruled it out.

QUARTER BACK—All right, coach.

COACH—Now, another thing: Don't pay attention to the referee's whistle for starting plays. Just wait till the news weekly boys on the sidelines give you the signal they're ready to shoot and then call your play.

QUARTER BACK—Yes, coach.

COACH—What this game needs is competent movie directors for officials. Why, the field judge spotted our game with Duryard by getting his shoulder in front of the lenses on a couple of long runs. They called 'em back so the movies could make a retake, but we never got the distance on the second tries.

PLAYER—Any other instructions, coach?

COACH—Yes. It's up to Capt. McTurk to watch our boys don't get Kilgus eyes while you're playing today. The minute you see a player half blinded by the lights, McTurk, yank him out of the line-up and send him in. We'll have plenty of doubles waiting.

CAPTAIN—Okay, coach.

COACH—Then I guess that's about all. Now, go in there, you fellows and win this game. No matter if you see a wide opening on the weak side of their line, remember to carry the ball on the side where the camera men are, even if you're thrown for a loss.

CAPTAIN—Come on, fellows: let's go!

COACH—Have all you birds got your makeup on?

ALL—Yes, coach.

COACH—Will you half backs remember to register agony for the news reels when you're tackled hard?

BACKS—Yes, coach.

COACH—Are our supers all ready with their stretchers, splints and crutches for the ambulance scene in the second half?

MANAGER—Everything is set, coach.

COACH—Then go in and play so there won't be any doubt we licked 'em when the Pathe Weekly is released at next Monday's matinee.

BARCELONA IN GRIP OF BIG STRIKE

BARCELONA, Spain, Nov. 17.—UP—A general strike paralyzed transportation, commerce and industry in the Barcelona district today.

Simultaneously, strikes were called at Granada and the town of Lasencia, Caceres, province, a community of 9000. Unrest grew throughout Spain. The 48-hour general strike in Madrid was apparently at an end, but reports from the capital indicated a tense situation continued, with the populace restless and fearing further trouble.

Riot in Barcelona occurred during the strike today. Strikers quit work by tens of thousands. They roamed the streets and stoned tram cars, shops and the police whenever the authorities sought to disperse and quell the crowds.

Sympathy Strike
The 24-hour strike was called by the Sindicato Unico, with the approval of all labor organizations in Barcelona. It followed trouble in Madrid, and was called in sympathy with laborers there who quit following a clash last Friday, when workers sought to hold a gigantic demonstration in connection with the funeral of four workmen of the building trades.

The Barcelona strike originated in the suburb of Orta, where laborers tried to halt trains. Radicals tore up tracks.

Casualties mounted and arrests followed frequent clashes between strikers and the police. Local labor leaders were rounded up and arrested, but not in time to prevent circulation of the order for a general strike.

Taxis Stopped
By noon the strike had become thoroughly effective. Few motor cars were seen on the streets. Taxis that tried to operate were stoned.

The strikers were joined by students who, also on strike, roamed about, tearing signs from street cars, wrecking the cars and participating generally in the day's rioting. Bricks from the pavements were torn up and hurled at cars that sought to operate.

The labor organizations published a handbill announcing the general strike was of 24 hours duration, while public service employees were ordered to remain out longer, unless the capitalists officially recognize the Sindicato Union of transportation.

Aside from the sporadic rioting and the unusual number of people on the streets, there appeared to be few bad effects of the strike. The sidewalk cafes did a rushing business this evening. Cafes, bars, tobacco shops, bakeries, butchers and confectioners remained open most of the day.

Foreign Sound Films Planned At Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 17.—UP—No longer are foreign language motion pictures a matter of conjecture in Hollywood, five studios having extensive programs to be produced in the next few months.

The early method of having the voices of foreign actors synchronized to films featuring well known English speaking stars has been abandoned for the most part.

Now, studios maintain stars who are the Chaplins, Talmadges and Fairbanks in their own countries, but are unknown in the United States, where the pictures are not shown, except in foreign districts.

The central casting bureau lists 365 men and 490 women capable of appearing as extras or taking minor parts in pictures made in other than English.

In the last half year there have been 59 foreign language films released in Hollywood of which 27 were Spanish, 12 French, 11 German and 9 in other tongues.

The average foreign picture of the better class costs $75,000. This figure is comparatively low because the long shots are taken from the English films and the same sets are used. Mob scenes in which sound effects rather than words are used also are inserted.

French, Spanish and German films are being made by Metro-Goldwyn Mayer, First National and Paramount. A revue was made in Swedish, Italian and Czechoslovakian. In its European studio, Paramount made films in Swedish, Hungarian, Rumanian, Jugo-Slavian, Dutch and Portuguese.

Titles, naturally, undergo a change. In Spanish, one mad kiss will become el precio de la duena while the "Last of the Duanees" will change to El Ultimo De Los Vargas. In Spanish, French and German the Boudoir Diplomat will be called Don Juan Diplomatico, Amour Sur Commande and Lieve Aut Refehl, respectively.

'SHOWDOWN' IS DEMANDED BY TROJANS

Altschuler, president of the California student body, to Lewis Gough, president of the U. S. C. student body, read:

"Please do not consider any statement regarding your players coming from the Berkeley campus as official. The students of the university are in no way poor sports and give you due credit for your fine team. Please explain our feelings to your athletic authorities and student bodies. Our chief concern at present is our game with Stanford."

Shortly before the message was received, Bill Hunter, director of intercollegiate athletics at U. S. C., issued a formal statement in which he said that U. S. C. does not engage in mud-slinging but that "thinly veiled insinuations and slanders" are proving a persecution.

For those who have honest convictions regarding allegations of professionalism there are well-known methods provided by the Pacific Coast conference for the hearing and adjudicating of such charges.

Showdown Assured
He said that immediately after the loss of a football game is hardly the time for the defeated persons to make such insinuations.

Fritz Cahn, California tackle, speaking at a rally just after U. S. C. had defeated California, 74 to 0, said that California had been beaten by the "best professional football team in the country."

In a lengthy statement earlier in the day, Warren G. Bovard, vice president of U. S. C., said that it was no longer possible for the school to take the insults hurled by partisans of the University of California and Stanford university.

He said that editorials in the University of California Daily paper could not continue to be regarded as a student "popping off" and that it was time for someone in authority at California to take a definite stand.

Scores U. C.
Bovard declared that there is no basis for charges that U. S. C. is guilty of scholastic irregularities. He said that U. S. C. is on National Educational association approved lists, has lived up to Coast conference regulations and that athletes' credits are watched closely.

His statement was made as the result of an editorial in the Daily Californian in which Arthur Arlett, editor-in-chief, said that "naturally any school accused of subsidization would be prepared to produce evidence of its innocence."

While the Stanford Daily said "there is absolutely no foundation to reports that contemplates any such break with U. S. C." the Californian said that it would be regrettable for California or Stanford to break down before the demands for apologies and that "if any relations are to be broken, it is for us to break them."

EL CERRITO TO GET STREET WORK

With property owners along Stockton avenue between San Pablo and Terrace satisfied that they can stand the expense of a five foot wide walk on both sides of the street, the El Cerrito city council Monday night by unanimous vote instructed the city engineer to prepare plans and specifications for the improvement.

The motion to make plans for the improvement was made by Councilman Lee after he had talked with many property owners in that district, who protested the proposed improvement of the street.

At the same time Councilman Larson notified property owners that they could not hold the council or any future council responsible should any act be passed calling for the widening of the street to the same width as the street in other parts of the city.

The present width of Stockton avenue is 35 feet, Larson told the council and citizens present, while other parts of the same street are as wide as 50 feet.

Hospital Richmond in a written request asked that they be given a contract to handle all emergency cases arising in El Cerrito. The plan would be the same as that now in effect with the city of Richmond. The matter was referred to R. B. Cheek, chief of police for investigation and report.

Council and city clerk's tables were ordered renewed. Deep scars in both tables will be removed in the renewing process.

Reports from all city officials were delivered the city council except that of the plumbing inspector. Mayor Beck instructed the city clerk to write the plumbing inspector a letter, ordering him to have his monthly report at the council meeting by the second Monday of every month.

Balance in the general fund at Nov. 1 was $3688.09, report read by the city clerk showed.

Building permits issued during the month of October totaled $22,500 and fees collected during the same period were $33. Seven electrical permits were issued for a total of $1865 in fees.

Police Judge A. J. Thompson reported traffic fines collected during October totaled $1,174.50, and fines from other causes amounted to $655.

Chief of Police Cheek's report showed $3932.59 taxes collected during October.

Protest to the manner the East Bay Utility district leaves holes in El Cerrito streets after they have installed service or worked on pipes was made by Councilman Larson.

T. H. DeLap, city attorney was instructed to communicate with the proper authorities in an effort to eliminate the nuisance caused the city by such action.

While Strong gave emergency treatment to Kreuger, Gore was given away by Mrs. Bert Buckler, who was arrested tonight.

KNOTT FIGHTS CHARGES OF GIRL

Affidavit was on file in superior court today in which Zeb Knott, former supervisor from this district denies he is the father of a child born to Mrs. Mary Tamblin.

Thomas Carlson, attorney for Knott filed the affidavit yesterday along with a motion for a change of venue to San Diego county, a demurrer to the complaint on the ground that sufficient cause for action had not been shown and a motion to strike out various portions of the complaint.

These actions gave evidence of the former Richmond resident's plan to fight the charges.

Following the filing of the suit against Knott by Mrs. Mary Tamblin in which she charges Knott is the father of her child, and asked that he support it, process servers were unable to locate the defendant.

He was last reported living in San Diego county. Carlson in filing the papers yesterday declared Knott would make a voluntary appearance before the court.

The court will hear the plea for a change of venue Nov. 24.

Carlson declared the suit brought by Mrs. Tamblin was an attempt to blacken the name of a man held in high esteem here. He indicated a strong fight would be made in the courts in an effort to clear his client's name.

NEW STORM TO STRIKE STATE SOON

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—UP—Winter, capricious as an ingenue, tantalized the midwest tonight with balmy weather before deluging the whole area with snow and a blizzard of the first dimension.

In the Canadian north and in the wilds of Alaska, winter was rolling together a violent storm which should reach here, said the weather bureau, by the middle of the week.

Heavy fall of sleet and snow already had isolated central Canada and parts of Minnesota. So widespread was the damage to telephone and telegraph lines that extent of the storm still was unknown. Emergency crews of linemen worked 24 hours on end, but the storm continued so violently that much of the repairing had to be done over again.

Heavy rains broke the cold wave on the Pacific coast, but another snow storm was reported to be bearing down on a gale from Alaska.

Widespread storms in the intermountain states laid down a blanket of snow six to eight inches deep in parts of Utah, Nevada, Idaho and Wyoming.

All airmail and passenger planes were grounded at the Salt Lake City airport. Several primary highways in Utah were blocked by drifts.

The weather bureau here said that the present warm weather would remain until Wednesday, when the cold wave from the north was expected to arrive.

YOUR CHEAPEST NECESSITY...

YOUR fire insurance dollar pays for indemnity—for immunity against financial loss when calamity overtakes you. But that dollar buys so much more than the indemnity it pays for that it ranks as one of the most effective dollars you spend.

Fire insurance, from the indemnity standpoint alone, is one of the cheapest of present-day necessities. Its cost has consistently declined for many years—even during the period of war inflation.

And this in spite of the fact that insurance service—as rendered by the more than 250 Stock companies constituting the National Board of Fire Underwriters—has multiplied its activities for the public welfare and greatly enlarged their scope.

Research and Engineering

Your fire insurance dollar may pay for indemnity only, but for good measure provides engineering and research services to make life and property safer—laboratories in which to test materials and devices—scientific measurement of fire hazards—building construction codes—arson detection and investigation—organized fire prevention—and other voluntary measures designed to lower the fire waste and thereby reduce the cost of fire insurance.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE

A thorough understanding of what Stock Fire Insurance really means and does—and greater public use of its facilities—will result in a still further reduction of the fire waste and a consequently greater service to the insuring public.
